several categories.

The Williamsburg Choral Guild offered a fine performance of Duruflé's Requiem Oct. 17 at Williamsburg Presbyterian Church. Artistic director Michelle Kwok's shaping of this lovely work was on display by the Guild's 90-some members. They delivered solid, balanced, strong and thoughtful singing. Rebecca Davy's always excellent organ playing added substance and color to the Requiem.

The Warhill High School Choir, under Marie Knight, also participated, singing two works as an ensemble and effectively joining the Guild in Duruflé's "Ubi Caritas."

Have information about the arts in the Historic Triangle? Contact John Shulson at johnshulson@gmail.com.